ART THERAPY MEDIA RELEASE FORM (OPTIONAL)

- All artwork created during art therapy sessions is confidential, is the property of the client, and is not released without client written permission.
- At times, art images created during art therapy sessions can be useful for training, clinical supervision, brochures, website, case material for scientific and educational reasons, along with publication or presentation
- Any released artwork will be presented in a manner that ensures the confidentiality of the client, and in a professional and respectful manner
- There is no expectation or requirement of art therapy media release and not doing so does not impact the treatment. Client withdrawal of consent may be at any time and for any reason.

My permission is granted to photograph art images and release said images for the purpose(s) stated above, or restricted
